v.

Trena S Llyod

RESPONDENT

ORDER DISMISSING CLAIM

The Copyright Claims Board issued orders on January 29, 2025 and March 3, 2025 that notified the claimant that the claim and amended claim, respectively, did not comply with the applicable statutory and regulatory requirements for filings before the Board. On October 23, 2024, the claimant filed a second amended claim, which was the final opportunity to file a compliant claim. 17 U.S.C. § 1506(f)(1)(B); 37 C.F.R. § 224.1(d).

A Copyright Claims Attorney reviewed the second amended claim and determined that each claim raised is still noncompliant. The claimant has not cured any of the issues raised in the March 3, 2025 noncompliance order. For the reasons set forth in more detail in that order:

- the copyright infringement claim does not provide a basis to find that the respondent made any use of the allegedly infringed work, as an exhibit shows that the allegedly infringing thumbnail images are distinct from the image in the claimant's registered photograph;
- the claim for a declaration of noninfringement does not provide a basis to find an actual controversy between the parties over whether the claimant infringed the respondent's copyright; and
- the claim of misrepresentation under section 512 of the Copyright Act does not provide a basis to find that an online service provider relied on a misrepresentation by the respondent to restore allegedly infringing material.

The Copyright Claims Attorney referred the claim to a Copyright Claims Officer to confirm that it does not comply with the applicable requirements and that this proceeding should, therefore, be dismissed without prejudice. 17 U.S.C. § 1506(f)(1)(B). The Copyright Claims Officer reviewed the second amended claim and concurs with the finding of noncompliance.

Accordingly, the Board dismisses this claim without prejudice and closes this case. Dismissal without prejudice means that the allegations may be raised again by filing a new claim, if there is no agreement with the respondent to the contrary.
