

COPYRIGHT CLAIMS BOARD

Docket number: 24-CCB-0313

October 21, 2024

Courtney Parsons

CLAIMANT

v.

Paul Mannion

RESPONDENT

ORDER TO AMEND NONCOMPLIANT CLAIM

The Copyright Claims Board (Board) finds that your claim does not comply with the requirements of the CASE Act and related regulations. The claim cannot move forward unless it is amended.

If you wish to proceed with this claim, you must file an amended claim by November 20, 2024. If you do not, the Board must dismiss your claim without prejudice, although you may file again in the future before the Board or in federal court. If you file an amended claim and it is found compliant, you will be notified and directed to proceed with service. 17 U.S.C. § 1506(f)(1)(B). However, you should not submit an amended misrepresentation claim if you know that it cannot be properly amended.

To make your amended claim compliant, you must resolve the issue identified below. 37 C.F.R. § 224.1(c)(2). You may also choose to correct or edit any errors or other information in your claim before you file it again. You do not need to provide a legal argument in your claim – just a statement of facts and circumstances. Being specific in your description gives the other party and the Board more information about your claim. There is no character limit, so please be as detailed as possible.

Misrepresentation Claim – Reliance by Online Service Provider

You are bringing a claim of misrepresentation in connection with a counter-notice under 17 U.S.C. § 512(f). That kind of misrepresentation has a very specific meaning under copyright law, which involves false statements made to an online service provider (OSP) related to a copyright-protected work posted online.

Your claim must make enough factual allegations to support each “element” of the claim. The elements of misrepresentation that apply to your claim are:

1. The respondent sent an OSP a counter-notice denying the claim of infringement in a takedown notice, and claiming the online content was removed or disabled due to a mistake or a misidentification,
2. The respondent made a misrepresentation (a false or incorrect statement of fact) in the counter-notice,
3. The respondent knew the misrepresentation was false or incorrect,
4. The misrepresentation was important to the OSP’s decision to repost the content, and
5. You were harmed as a result of the OSP’s decision to repost the content.

17 U.S.C. § 512(f). A misrepresentation in a counter-notice only violates section 512 of the Copyright Act if the OSP relies on it to restore the allegedly infringing content. Information in your claim indicates that the alleged misrepresentation could not have been a factor in any decision by the OSP to repost the content because the OSP had not reposted the material at issue at the time you filed your claim.

You state that you sent YouTube (the OSP) a takedown notice on October 3, 2024, related to content posted on the respondent's YouTube channel. You state, "YouTube followed up with me, asked for some supporting documents to prove I was the author of the material used in the infringing video, and REMOVED the video from its site on 10/10/24 after finding that my copyright claim was valid." You state that the respondent sent YouTube a counter-notice on October 14, 2024. You filed this claim the next day, October 15, 2024.

The proximity of the counter-notice and the claim suggests that YouTube may not have reinstated the video at the time you filed your claim, and there is no allegation in your claim that YouTube did restore it. "Safe harbor" provisions in section 512 of the Copyright Act protect certain OSPs from paying damages for infringement claims if they restore allegedly infringing material, ten to fourteen business days after receiving a proper counter-notice, unless they first receive notice of an infringement claim filed against the alleged infringer in court or before the Board. More information is available on the Copyright Office's section 512 page.

If YouTube had restored the allegedly infringing material by the time you filed this claim on October 15, 2024, your amended claim must state facts about that restoration. However, if the OSP had not restored the allegedly infringing material in reliance on the October 14, 2024 counter-notice, this misrepresentation claim cannot move forward and you may not submit an amended misrepresentation claim.

To submit an amended claim, log into your eCCB account and take the following steps:

1. From your dashboard, click the "Amend claim" button and select your docket number from the dropdown list.
2. Your claim will unlock for editing. The information you originally entered will appear in the same order as in your original claim.
3. Make the necessary edits. If you have filed supplemental documents, you must re-upload any documents you wish to include in the amended claim on the "Documentation" page. Please include only documents directly related to your claim, and label them clearly.
4. Once you have completed your edits, continue to click through the fillable claim form until you reach the "Review" page. The Review page includes all the information that you have provided in the claim up to this point. Carefully double-check the information on this page. If you have any corrections, you can select "Edit" to revise any entries necessary. Each section of information has an "Edit" button, which will take you back to that section so you can make changes. After you make changes, you can click "Save & review" to return to the Review page. Please review your claim carefully. Once you submit your amended claim, you will be unable to edit the claim while it is in compliance review.

5. Once you have completed your review and any revisions, you must confirm that the information in your claim is accurate and truthful to the best of your knowledge. To complete the declaration, type your full name into the “Digital signature” box near the bottom of the “Review filing” page and click “Agree & submit.”
